FOUR ESCAPE DEATH AT CROSSING

THIS AND THAT

Comments on Anything and Everything for the Week

By Norman W. Ralston

Graduation

"Beyond the Alps lies Italy—" Recollections of commencement days of old. Bright-faced girls in sprightly spring dresses, all hues, colors, and ribbons flying. Dashing young Romeos with near-intelligent looks. Songs, speeches, inspiration, baccalureates, kindly old professors and young pedagogues with an air of superiority. Class songs. And Jewelry stores filled with happy fathers and mothers buying gifts. The big event of the year. Graduation, commencement! What a wonderful time of the year is spring, and how much more wonderful is life when twelve years of school have been put back of you and you step forth to conquer the world. Giants seem mere pygmies, life a small universe that can soon be conquered. Luckily for the graduate, for his happiness and enthusiasm at least ,that he does not know all of reality. But even then, reality brings experience and a truer wisdom that is sometimes deeper and far greater than fickle youth.

More Light

The boulevard lig[illegible] question is marking time. Th[illegible]rs of the Chamber of Commerce have been appointed to solicit downtown property owners with a petition with a view to getting them to agree to the installation of an extensive boulevard lighting system by having their property bear a small assessment, such a very small assessment that it seems ridiculous that Circleville is one of the few cities this size in Ohio that hasn't had a "white way" lighting system long before this. For instance, a 30-foot front building will cost but 70 cents per month for a period of 10 years, until the complete system is paid for. If any civic improvement in any city isn't worth 70 cents a month for 10 years to a man who has enough money to own a 30-foot front building than he has a distorted idea on what the real use for money is—and he won't be able to take it with him when he leaves this earth. All this, not counting the fact that it is not conjecture but a proven fact that property valuation increases considerably after a street becomes well lighted, especially through the ornamental system now planned in Circleville. The directors of the Chamber of Commerce have had this proposition before them for some time now, and should put aside excuses that "they cannot get together" for some reason o rother, and start the circulation of this petition. Treat your civic projects like you would your own business, and who is there who wouldn't like to see a couple of streets in town light enough so you won't be skinning your nose bumping into a telephone pole or a pedestrian?

Hazards

Pickaway-co had its first drowning of the year when two men lost their lives in the Scioto River near Yellow Bud. They were fishing. One fell out of the boat while attempting to string a trout line. He pulled the boat and his companion down with him. Thus does recreation have its hazards. Life in this day and age is never safe. Here were two men, one but 29 and the other in the prime of his life, too, seeking a little relief from the monotony of corn planting by fishing, one of the grandest American sports ever. And they meet their death Likewise, do automobile accidents take their toll, explosions and fires. Many are caused by carelessness Some are seemingly unavoidable. The thing to do is to be as careful as you can and hope for a kind Fate. Remember, this is the start of a vacation season that can easily have an unhappy ending if you forget

KENTUCKY SET FOR GREATEST RACING EVENT

Reigh Count Easily Favorite As Crowd Gets Ready For $50,000 Spectacle

CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, KY, May 19— A great throng of humanity, fired with excitement gathered here today to watch a score of thoroughbred horses scramble through a mile and a quarter of mud for glory, a gold trophy, a wreath of flowers and some $50,000.

The intermittent rains of the last few days while they left the track in deplorable condition, failed to dampen the ardor of thousands and thousands of visitors who gathered for the 54th running of the Kentucky derby, America's national horse race.

The race, fifth on the program today, probably will get away about 5 p. m., Central Standard time.

The crowd poured into Louisville in luxurious chartered trains, in Pullman specials, day coaches, by river boat, trolley car, farm wagons, horseback and even by airplane and some afoot.

Negroes from Kentucky farms were as eager in interest and as much a pair of the derby day crowd as the governor of Kentucky, the debonair Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York, or E. B. McLean, the wealthy publisher and sportsman.

26 HORSES ENTERED

The hearts and minds of this great crowd were centered entirely on the 26 horses remaining of the original list of 796 for the derby. Counting several almost certain scratches, about 20 of them were expected to go to the post about 4 o'clock.

Reigh Count, the splendid chestnut colt owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago, was the overwhelming favorite. Thousands of dollars were being wagered on other horses, but most of it was bet in the hope of beating the Hertz entry. Reigh Count and Reigh Olga.

Millions of dollars depend on the colt's performance today. All winter long, "big money" was laid in the winter books on him, some of it as high as 8 to 1. If he wins many a fly-by-night handbook will be swallowed up.

The regal colt was guarded like an emperor in his stable, and no outsider will see him until he steps proudly to the starting post this afternoon, well in the van of the field.

Toro Second Favorite

The heaviest of the betting aside from Reigh Count was on E. B. McLean's Toro. The Audley Farm-Salubria stable entry, of Bobashela and strolling player; Mrs. H. C. Phills' and Ogden Mills' distraction; the LeMan farm's missteo and mop up; J. R. McComber's Petoe wrack and W. [illegible] Curran's Jack Higgins.

Thousands also will oe bet on the 8 or 9 horses grouped today as "The Field." The horses conceded the least chance are placed in the field, but the field sometimes wins, either by numerical strength or the unexpected quality of some member of it Flying ebony won for the field in 1925.

The crowd began streaming to the track early. Some camped on stools and boxes outside the gates all night to be sure of a place.

It was a cosmopolitan and representative gathering that came to Louisville. Women were numerous, but they were nervous over their finery, with the weather forecaster gloomily warning of possible showers in the afternoon

Hotels were crowded and were sold out in advance weeks ago Thousands ate and slept in their Pullmans, under special arrangements made by the railroad companies

Nearly 500 sleeping cars carried those from far cities led by a long string of 25 special trains from Chicago

Last year's crowd at the derby was estimated at 75,000 to 85,000 This year's crowd almost certainly will be greater

Seven Rattlers Killed On Farm Near Yellow Bud

You've heard of fish stories but this is a snake story that's a real one, and no hokum!

Right here in Pickaway-co there are rattlesnakes, and plenty of them, too, believe it or not.

Leo Dunlap, of Yellow Bud, was in The Herald office, Friday afternoon, exhibiting them as proof of his story that he and Carl Cross and another boy named Parker had killed seven of them in the past two and a half days.

The snakes were found on the Stevenson farm in Wayne-twp, west of Yellow Bud. He exhibited the largest which was about two and a half feet long and had 11 rattles and was a Prairie rattler, considered the most dangerous of all rattlers.

Young Parker had an amusing "ride" when he drove his tractor entirely through a fence trying to run one down and crush it with the farm machine, but the rattler got away.

Rattlesnakes, which are deadly as everyone knows, are still prevalent in this county and one Yellow Bud farmer is said to have killed 62 of them last year.

The snakes were not found in a "den" but were scattered over the farm indicating they are prevalent undoubtedly in many parts of Pickaway-co.

SMITH AND HOOVER WIN

PORTLAND, Ore.. May 19.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York had a substantial lead today over his opponents in the Oregon primary election.

Tabulation of additional returns from yesterday's ballotting indicated that the eastern candidate for the Democratic presidential nomation would hold his margin over other candidates and win the state's 10 National convention delegates.

Herbert Hoover, who was unopposed on the Republican ballot, received a strong endorsement from the voters. The election added 13 votes to the number already pledged to him at the Kansas City convention next month.

MT. STERLING'S BANK CLOSED; MAY RE-OPEN

Federal Bank Examiners Take Action To Straighten Out Accounts Saturday

The First Citizens bank of Mt. Sterling, Madison-co, failed to open their doors this morning. Federal bank examiners, who have been going over the books and accounts thought it advisable to close the bank until the accounts are straightened out. It is thought that the bank will reopen in a few days, and that depositors will not lose a cent, as there is ample assests to cover all liabilities.

The First Citizens bank was incorporated for $85,000, in October 1927. The bank was formed by a consolidation of the First National and the Citizens National bank. It started out with resources of $1,000,000.

When the two banks consolidated the new bank did not start with a clean sheet. It was forced to carry as deadwood, notes and mortgages of the two old banks. These notes were covered by mortgages on farms in and around Mt. Sterling. It was a heavy load to carry. While the paper was gilt edged, farms have not been a source of great revenue for the past few years and the borrowers were not able to pay the interest on the money borrowed. Some of the mortgages had to be foreclosed but this did not tide over the new bank.

It is thought in banking circles that a way may be found to tide over the affairs of the new bank, and the institution will reopen for business in a few days.

Business of late at the New Citizens has been slow. Depositors have been withdrawing their accounts the past few weeks, and things have been going from bad to worse.

The officers of the closed bank, are, President E. Quimby Smith, and Vice President H. J. Taylor These with the following, formed the directorate, Arthur Weidinger, A. R. Alkire, S. H. Ridgeway, T. E. Riddle and L. R. Kious.

MARINE PATROLS HUNT REBEL GANG

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 19. Marine patrols moved through the hill country around Jinotega today searching for the rebel band recently defeated by Captain Robert S. Hunter's detachment—an engagement that cost the life of hunter, one marine and one member of the Nicaraguan guard.

Hunter died early Friday from wounds he received in the skirmish with the rebels.

Five rebels were killed and five others were injured, it was reported here The reports indicated the skirmish was about May 14

The marine captain gave his life in leading his small detachment in the successful ambush movement against the rebels, who were led by Jose Leon Diaz.

OWNS DERBY FAVORITE

Mrs. John D. Hertz, wife of the New York and Chicago taxicab and bus magnate, pictured as she watched a workout by Reigh Count, favored to win the Kentucky Derby Saturday. Reigh Count's victory Monday established him as the most likely winner of the race.

Socko! Bottle Thumps Mack's Head And Hat

Lady Lucky was a long way off from Mack Mader Friday night. He was in Columbus, with Bob Smith, and they had just walked out of the Neil House and got into Mack's car, which was sitting with the top down at the side entrance into the alley, when socko, a bottle hit Mack squarely on the top of his head.

Not being accustomed to having gin bottles gently tossed on him from fourth stories in hotels, Mack was slightly overcome. Feeling of a two-inch cut on his head, and sadly viewing his ruined new fedora, he walked back into the hotel and complained to the management. The latter took him to a doctor, and told him to return Sunday afternoon, and the damages would be discussed.

PLANE MAKES BIG HIT HERE

Traffic enroute to the flying field on E. Ohio-st, where the Lady Dover, the advertising and carrying airplane of the Dover Manufacturing company, of Dover, Ohio, manufacturers of electric irons, took up passengers all yesterday afternoon and until late last night, was congested and machines were lined up all along the street for miles both ways.

Mr. Charles T. Gilmore, local manager of the Ohio Utilities Co. and Mr. Karl J. Herrmann, advertising manager of the Circleville Herald were the first passengers to soar over the city.

This was Manager Gilmore's first trip in an airplane and after landing he remarked that the ride was entirely too short. He meant it, too, as he later took another ride accompanied by his little son, Horace

Quite a number of people from the city and vicinity availed themselves of this opportunity to ride in the plane at the very small sum of $1.50 and a coupon clipped from the pages of the Circleville Herald These coupons are signed by a representative of the Ohio Utilities company upon the purchase of a Lady Dover Iron

Pilot Norin reports that he has been taking passengers up all Saturday morning in the Lady Dover and will remain at the field all afternoon and evening for this purpose

By special arrangement the plane will remain in the city over Sunday and passengers will be taken up for the small sum of $3 and $5

This is a very small price for an airplane ride and all those who have not done so should avail themselves of the opportunity.

The field is located on E. Ohio-st at the foot of Renick-ave and is easily reached.

MARTIN SELLS HIS STUDIO AND WILL ACCEPT ROAD JOB

Photographer Here for Years Disposes of Business to Nelsonville Man.

J. Frank Martin has sold his studio to Frank E. McCreary, a photographer of Nelsonville. Possession will be given June 1.

Mr. Martin, the retiring owner, has decided to go on the road for a photo supply house. He has been at this one location for a number of years and has made many friends here who will regret to learn of his giving up the business here.

Mr. Martin came to this city 32 years ago and established the studio.

After a period of 15 years due to his wife's health, he went to California and returning from the golden state, he established himself in business in Columbus.

The lure of the 'Old Town' was too much, and he bought out Mr. Tidd in 1912, and returned to this city where he has since remained.

CONDITION SERIOUS

Dr. E. C. Brock of Columbus was called in consultation with Dr. H. E. Jackson Friday evening regarding the illness of Wilson H. Pontious of Pinkney-st.

On advice of the surgeon Mr. Pontious was removed to Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, at once in the invalid coach of Mader & Eberts.

An abdominal obstruction, the exact cause of which is not fully determined at this time, is serious inasmuch as the patient's heart is too weak to administer an anaesthetic for operation.

MRS. MONROE RECOVERS

Mrs Gilbert Monroe of Portsmouth who has been ill for the past six months, has recovered her health and will visit with her friends in this city, next week.

Mrs Monroe, who was worthy matron of the Circleville chapter of the Order of Eastern Stars, some few years ago is well known here and her friends will be pleased to learn of her convalescence.

She will be the guest at the home of Mrs Carrie A Patton while in the city and will remain over next Tuesday for the Eastern Star inspection

MAVIS FAMILY AUTO STRUCK AT CROSSING

Mother Is Injured But Two Children And Husband Escape Unhurt

Four Circleville persons escaped death at 9:25 a.m., Saturday, when the Cincinnati train on the Pennsylvania division crashed into the Chevrolet coach of George F. Mavis, Half-av, this city, at a crossing near Gordon's salvage yards.

Mavis, his wife and two children were occupants of the car. Only his wife was injured.

Mr. Mavis was driving north towards the crossing and had not heard the whistle of the train.

From the report of bystanders the engineer had applied the air-brakes when he saw another car about to cross the tracks going south. Mr. Mavis was driving rather slowly at the time and had no warning of the approaching train.

The car was struck in a line with the water pump at the front of the cylinder block and turned completely around. The front wheels were smashed and both fenders twisted about them.

Mrs. Mavis was the only occupant of the car that suffered any injuries. She was cut rather severly above the right eye and her head was bruised by contact with the dash light of the car.

Both children were riding in the back seat of the car and were thrown forward and luckily escaped injury.

It is not known just who was to blame as Mr. Mavis has not ascertained whether or not the whistle of the locomotive was blown at the crossing.

VAN SWERINGEN'S RAILROAD MERGER PLAN HITS SNAG

Interstate Commission Rejects Consolidating Erie With C. & O.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Interstate Commerce commission's rejection of the Van Sweringen plan to merge the Erie railroad with the Chesapeake and Ohio was believed today to have pointed the way for a general consolidation plan, on a competitive basis, involving the important Eastern trunk lines.

One paragraph in the decision virtually warned the carried to agree on some definite merger plan if they wish the commission to approve individual mergers such as that proposed by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland railroad owners.

Additional weight was lent to this view by the commission's simultaneous issuance of a complaint charging the new New York Central, and Baltimore and Ohio, and the Nickel Plate with violating the Clayton anti-Trust Act in acquiring stock control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie without commission approval.

Observers here believed the primary effect would be to hasten formulation by the Eastern lines of the much-discussed merger plan on a four-system basis and its early submission to the commission for approval.

The commission's approval of the merger insofar as the Pere Marquette is concerned was not viewed as of primary importance as that line is not considered a major road and there is no real connection between it and the C and O approval of the Pere Marquette, inclusion with the C. and C. was solely from a transportation standpoint.

HATTIE LESHER IS TAKEN BY DEATH; CANCER IS CAUSE

Well Known Resident Of Circleville Passes Away At Court-St Home

Mrs. Hattie Lesher, wife of Charles Lesher, died at her home, 639 S. Court-st at 9:30 p. m., Friday.

She had been ill for several years. Her death was due to cancer. Mrs. Lesher was born in Ross-co, a daughter of Thomas and Karshner Patterson.

She married Charles Lesher at Covington, Ky., Sept. 17, 1903. Her husband survives.

Of her immediate family, one full brother and two full sisters are living. They are: Samuel W. Patterson, Mrs. Ida Lesher, of Adelphi, and Mrs. Mazie Hixon of Chillicothe.

Four half brothers are also living. They are: Frank Patterson of Chillicothe, John Miley Patterson of Hallsville, Addison T. Patterson of Columbus, and Walter Patterson of Chicago, Ill.

The funeral services will be held at the Methodist church, Adelphi, Monday at 10:30 a. m. Rev. J. R. Fields of Logan will officiate.

Interment will be made in the family lot in Adelphi cemetery. Fred C. Clark of the Albaugh Co., has charge of the funeral.

CASE DISMISSED AGAINST TWO MEN

The cases against Oscar Miller and Merle Smith, arrested and tried on the charge of robbing Fred Howard at Seifert's park last January have been dismissed by Judge Curtain for want of prosecution. The prisoners had two trials, and in both cases the jury disagreed. Under the law the trial judge has the right to dismiss when juries disagree.

Judge E. A. Brown and Meeker Terwilliger represented the state. M. C. Seyfert, Jr., C. A. Leist of this city, and Mrs. Ricketts the defendants.

This was one of the most celebrated cases ever tried before the court, and at both trials the court room was jammed with audiences.

SEEKS DIVORCE

An action and suit for divorce was filed in probate court Friday by Violet B. Cramblet, against John H. Cramblet. The plaintiff claims gross neglect and cruelty as the grounds for the divorce. Attorney Irvin Snyder represents the plaintiff.

MT. STERLING'S BANK CLOSED; MAY RE-OPEN

Federal Bank Examiners Take Action To Straighten Out Accounts Saturday

The First Citizens bank of Mt. Sterling, Madison-co, failed to open their doors this morning. Federal bank examiners, who have been going over the books and accounts thought it advisable to close the bank until the accounts are straightened out. It is thought that the bank will reopen in a few days, and that depositors will not lose a cent, as there is ample assests to cover all liabilities.

The First Citizens bank was incorporated for $85,000, in October 1927. The bank was formed by a consolidation of the First National and the Citizens National bank. It started out with resources of $1,000,000.

When the two banks consolidated the new bank did not start with a clean sheet. It was forced to carry as deadwood, notes and mortgages of the two old banks. These notes were covered by mortgages on farms in and around Mt. Sterling. It was a heavy load to carry. While the paper was gilt edged, farms have not been a source of great revenue for the past few years and the borrowers were not able to pay the interest on the money borrowed. Some of the mortgages had to be foreclosed but this did not tide over the new bank.

It is thought in banking circles that a way may be found to tide over the affairs of the new bank, and the institution will reopen for business in a few days.

Business of late at the New Citizens has been slow. Depositors have been withdrawing their accounts the past few weeks, and things have been going from bad to worse.

The officers of the closed bank, are, President E. Quimby Smith, and Vice President H. J. Taylor These with the following, formed the directorate, Arthur Weidinger, A. R. Alkire, S. H. Ridgeway, T. E. Riddle and L. R. Kious.

MARINE PATROLS HUNT REBEL GANG

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 19. Marine patrols moved through the hill country around Jinotega today searching for the rebel band recently defeated by Captain Robert S. Hunter's detachment—an engagement that cost the life of hunter, one marine and one member of the Nicaraguan guard.

Hunter died early Friday from wounds he received in the skirmish with the rebels.

Five rebels were killed and five others were injured, it was reported here. The reports indicated the skirmish was about May 14.

The marine captain gave his life in leading his small detachment in the successful ambush movement against the rebels, who were led by Jose Leon Diaz.

BOY IS CRUSHED BENEATH ROLLER

Lowell Kocher, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kocher living just east of Amanda, narrowly escaped death, when he fell beneath a farm roller that his younger brother was driving in a field. Lowell who was bending over, lost his balance and fell beneath the roller. The wheel passed over his head before his brother could stop the team.

The injured lad was taken to the office of Dr. Reichelderfer in Amanda. It took fourteen stitches to close the wound in his head.

Socko! Bottle Thumps Mack's Head And Hat

Lady Lucky was a long way off from Mack Mader Friday night. He was in Columbus, with Bob Smith, and they had just walked out of the Neil House and got into Mack's car, which was sitting with the top down at the side entrance into the alley, when socko, a bottle hit Mack squarely on the top of his head.

Not being accustomed to having gin bottles gently tossed on him from fourth stories in hotels, Mack was slightly overcome. Feeling of a two-inch cut on his head, and sadly viewing his ruined new fedora, he walked back into the hotel and complained to the management. The latter took him to a doctor, and told him to return Sunday afternoon, and the damages would be discussed.

PLANE MAKES BIG HIT HERE

Traffic enroute to the flying field on E. Ohio-st, where the Lady Dover, the advertising and carrying airplane of the Dover Manufacturing company, of Dover, Ohio, manufacturers of electric irons, took up passengers all yesterday afternoon and until late last night, was congested and machines were lined up all along the street for miles both ways.

Mr. Charles T. Gilmore, local manager of the Ohio Utilities Co. and Mr. Karl J. Herrmann, advertising manager of the Circleville Herald were the first passengers to soar over the city.

This was Manager Gilmore's first trip in an airplane and after landing he remarked that the ride was entirely too short. He meant it, too, as he later took another ride, accompanied by his little son, Horace.

Quite a number of people from the city and vicinity availed themselves of this opportunity to ride in the plane at the very small sum of $1.50 and a coupon clipped from the pages of the Circleville Herald. These coupons are signed by a representative of the Ohio Utilities company upon the purchase of a Lady Dover Iron.

Pilot North reports that he has been taking passengers up all Saturday morning in the Lady Dover, and will remain at the field all afternoon and evening for this purpose.

By special arrangement the plane will remain in the city over Sunday and passengers will be taken up for the small sum of $3 and $5.

This is a very small price for an airplane ride and all those who have not done so should avail themselves of the opportunity.

The field is located on E. Ohio-st at the foot of Renick- ave and is easily reached.

MARTIN SELLS HIS STUDIO AND WILL ACCEPT ROAD JOB

Photographer Here for Years Disposes of Business to Nelsonville Man.

J. Frank Martin has sold his studio to Frank E. McCreary, a photographer of Nelsonville. Possession will be given June 1.

Mr. Martin, the retiring owner, has decided to go on the road for a photo supply house. He has been at this one location for a number of years and has made many friends here who will regret to learn of his giving up the business here.

Mr. Martin came to this city 32 years ago and established the studio.

After a period of 15 years due to his wife's health, he went to California ,and returning from the golden state, he established himself in business in Columbus.

The lure of the 'Old Town' was too much, and he bought out Mr. Tidd in 1912, and returned to this city where he has since remained.

CONDITION SERIOUS

Dr. E. C. Brock of Columbus was called in consultation with Dr. H. D. Jackson Friday evening regarding the illness of Wilson H. Pontious of Pinkney-st.

On advice of the surgeon Mr. Pontious was removed to Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, at once in the invalid coach of Mader & Ebert.

An abdominal obstruction, the exact cause of which is not fully detrmined at this time, is serious inasmuch as the patient's heart is too weak to administer an anaesthetic for operation.

MRS. MONROE RECOVERS

Mrs. Gilbert Monroe of Portsmouth who has been ill for the past six months, has recovered her health and will visit with her friends in this city, next week.

Mrs. Monroe, who was worthy matron of the Circleville chapter of the Order of Eastern Stars, some few years ago is well known here and her friends will be pleased to learn of her convalescence.

She will be the guest at the home of Mrs. Carrie A. Patton while in the city and will remain over next Tuesday for the Eastern Star inspection.

MAVIS FAMILY AUTO STRUCK AT CROSSING

Mother Is Injured But Two Children And Husband Escape Unhurt

Four Circleville persons escaped death at 9:25 a.m., Saturday, when the Cincinnati train on the Pennsylvania division crashed into the Chevrolet coach of George F. Mavis, Half-av, this city, at a crossing near Gordon's salvage yards.

Mavis, his wife and two children were occupants of the car. Only his wife was injured.

Mr. Mavis was driving north towards the crossing and had not heard the whistle of the train.

From the report of bystanders the engineer had applied the airbrakes when he saw another car about to cross the tracks going south. Mr. Mavis was driving rather slowly at the time and had no warning of the approaching train.

The car was struck in a line with the water pump at the front of the cylinder block and turned completely around. The front wheels were smashed and both fenders twisted about them.

Mrs. Mavis was the only occupant of the car that suffered any injuries. She was cut rather severly above the right eye and her head was bruised by contact with the dash light of the car.

Both children were riding in the back seat of the car and were thrown forward and luckily escaped injury.

It is not known just who was to blame as Mr. Mavis has not ascertained whether or not the whistle of the locomotive was blown at the crossing.

VAN SWERINGEN'S RAILROAD MERGER PLAN HITS SNAG

Interstate Commission Rejects Consolidating Erie With C. & O.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Interstate Commerce commission's rejection of the Van Sweringen plan to merge the Erie railroad with the Chesapeake and Ohio was believed today to have pointed the way for a general consolidation plan, on a competitive basis, involving the important Eastern trunk lines.

One paragraph in the decision virtually warned the carried to agree on some definite merger plan if they wish the commission to approve individual mergers such as that proposed by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland railroad owners.

Additional weight was lent to this view by the commission's simultaneous issuance of a complaint charging the new New York Central, and Baltimore and Ohio, and the Nickel Plate with violating the Clayton anti-Trust Act in acquiring stock control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie without commission approval.

Observers here believed the primary effect would be to hasten formulation by the Eastern lines of the much-discussed merger plan on a four-system basis and its early submission to the commission for approval.

The commission's approval of the merger insofar as the Pere Marquette is concerned was not viewed as of primary importance as that line is not considered a major road and there is no real competition between it and the C. and O. approval of the Pere Marquette's inclusion with the C. and O. was solely from a transportation standpoint.

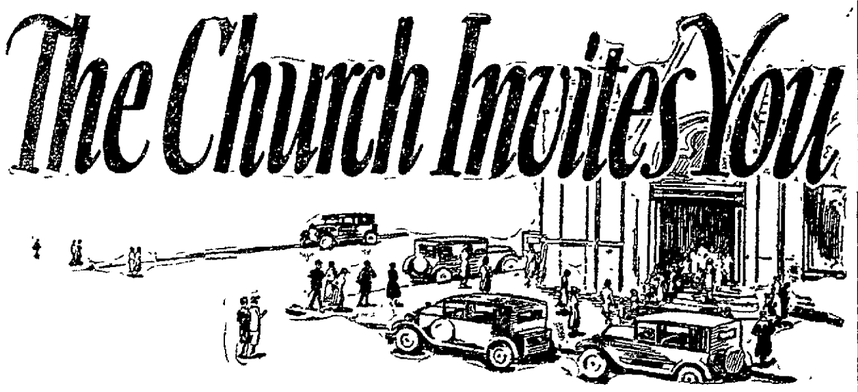
The Church Invites You



The Church, the Security of Life and Property.

Rev. David Gregg, one of America's great preachers, says:

"The rule is where this is no church and no church going there is not Sabbath, and where there is no Sabbath, and there is no religion, and where there is no religion there is no God, and where there is no God there is no conscience, and where there is no conscience there is no respect for the rights of men, there is no security for life and property."

"Now, take religion, God, conscience, respect for the rights of men and protection for life and property out of the American republic, and just how much of what is left would be worth having?"

Here is an irrefutable argument for church attendance. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

©1927 D.CARL YODER

Discussion Questions on the Sunday School Lesson, "Jesus Teaching in the Temple, Mark 12:13-34 for Sunday, May 20.

1. In what ways are insincere compliments paid to Christ today?

2. What are some wrong motives in asking questions?

3. Why pay taxes? How much has sin to do with the amount of taxes that have to be paid?

4. What is the relation of the Christian life to good citizenship?

5. What is the difference of the law as presented in the Old Testament and in the New Testament?

6. What are some of the outstanding brotherhoods of men and in what respects do they conform to the brotherhood as taught by Christ?

Clericus says: "Supreme love to God is the greatest force in any human being; when active in human life it makes the purest motives, the largest possibilities, the noblest character, the highest ideals, the largest usefulness. By loving God we learn how to love our fellowmen."

Lesson Prayer: "O Lord, we thank thee for such a revelation of truth that stands all attacks of critics and liberates power that makes truth victorious. Help us to Try truth with Try holy love which will empower us to stand all tests and criticisms and bring honor and glory to thee."

Imaginary Fortunes

A young man recently called on a friend saying, "I have a plan in my mind that will produce a fortune," and then he explained the details.

But, said my friend, "How do you know your plan will produce a fortune?"

The young man repeated much that he had said only with greater emphasis and pointed to the success of others that had gone on the theory, "nothing ventured, nothing gained."

"But," said my friend, "you say this plan is in your mind? Let me ask you a question. What would happen if you would lose your mind?"

"Why, if I would lose my mind, I would be dead broke," was the reply. D. CARL YODER.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

©1927 D.CARL YODER

This lesson records catch questions so clearly framed as to impale Jesus to answer them whichever way he would; he answered the questions with such candid replies that simply told the truth which not only answered the questioner but had convicting power.

Vs. 13, 14. "And they said unto him, is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar?" This question was introduced by flattery and it lacked the right motive. The question had in it a crafty snare; if he answered "no" he would bring down the Roman hand; if he answered "yes" he would be branded by the Jews as a traitor. This is a question that could not be answered by yes or no.

V. 15 "Why make ye trial of me?" No ideal state has yet appeared. Bad citizens were abroad; they tempt and trouble the good; but the good emerges as gold that is tried by fire.

Vs. 16, 17. "Whose is this image and superscription? Render to Caesar the things that are Ceasar's and unto God the things that are God's." Christ meant that in return for the earthly blessings conferred by Rome, it was right to make payment in form of taxes and that such payment did not conflict with complete obedience and allegiance to God in return for the heavenly blessings which God conferred.—Dr. Erdman.

V. 28. "And one of the scribes asked him, what commandment is first of all?" This was an acknowledged test question debated by leading Jewish scholars. It was putting Christ to the test of the highest education of the day.

Vs. 29, 30. "Jesus answered, the first is, Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God, the Lord is one; and thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy mind and with all thy strength." Jesus drew his answer from the scriptures (Deauteronomy 6:4-5) and quoted what every devout Jew recited twice a day. The first commandment means that one should get right with God by loving Him. Love is a comprehensive state of soul, gathering up in itself all the affections of the heart, the intelligence of the mind, and the energies of the will.

V. 31. "The second is this, thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these." If we love God we must love men, too, for men are created children of God and all men are brothers. This answer ought to have produced conviction for sin among his questioners who considered themselves "the better than thou" class.

Vs. 32-34. "And the scribes said unto him, of a truth, teacher, thou hast well said that he is one and there is none other but he. And Jesus said unto him, thou art not far from the kingdom." The scribe was almost a Christian. One who is not far from the kingdom may in the end be as far from it as the most terrible sinner.—Prof. Edward Parks.

IN OBSERVING THE WORK OF ONE OF MY PRIMARY TEACHERS I FIND THAT SHE SELDOM TELLS STORIES BUT SPENDS THE LESSON PERIOD IN ASKING QUESTIONS AND IN DOING HANDWORK. SHOULD NOT STORY TELLING METHOD OF TEACHING BE USED IN THIS DEPARTMENT?

There is a place for conversation growing out of simple questions and also for handwork in teaching children. If these features are correlated to a given lesson, the teacher should be encouraged to continue their use. Story-telling, however, is of first importance in teaching primary children. Perhaps the teacher lacks confidence in her ability to tell stories well. Encourage her to practice this art. Form a story-telling group in your workers' conference period. Furnish your primary teachers with such books as Stories and Story Telling by St. John; Story Telling in Religious Education, Story Telling for Beginners' and Primary Teachers, and Education by Story Telling, Cather. "It may be true, as claimed, that a story teller is not made but born; but it is also true that one may not know that he has the gift for story-telling until he has become a teacher and has begun to tell stories and tries to tell them well."

HOW LARGE SHOULD THE JUNIOR CLASSES IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL BE?

It depends entirely upon the number of TRAINED teachers available. With trained teachers, it is well to have classes having six to eight members; in case there are only a few trained teachers better have larger classes than to have small classes taught by untrained teachers. This principle applies to other grades as well.

THE BETTER WAY

(The Secular Press and Religious News)

One of the significant findings of the recent Church Publicity Conference is this one: "We recognize an awakened and increased interest by the secular press concerning religious news. We are glad to note the growing tendencies of press associations newspapers and magazines toward synthetic co-operation with the Christian church in giving general publicity to news concerning plans and acheivement of the church; and we express our appreciation to the press for this development."

"We have further satisfaction that more and more the daily press is training men and women in its staff to develop and interpret church news. The churches have a great opportunity and a real responsibility in this movement. The churches must do their part. They must make the news of their activities readily available in true newspaper style. The press has readily welcomed this aid wherever it has been intelligently established."

The Church Invites You

The Church, the Security of Life and Property.

Rev. David Gregg, one of America's great preachers, says:

"The rule is where this is no church and no church going there is not Sabbath, and where there is no Sabbath, and there is no religion, and where there is no religion there is no God, and where there is no God there is no conscience, and where there is no conscience there is no respect for the rights of men, there is no security for life and property."

"Now, take religion, God, conscience, respect for the rights of men and protection for life and property out of the American republic, and just how much of what is left would be worth having?"

Here is an irrefutable argument for church attendance. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Discussion Questions on S.S. Lesson

©1927 D. CARL YODER

Discussion Questions on the Sunday School Lesson, Jesus Teaching in the Temple, Mark 12:13-34 for Sunday, May 20.

1. In what ways are insincere compliments paid to Christ today?
2. What are some wrong motives in asking questions?
3. Why pay taxes? How much has sin to do with the amount of taxes that have to be paid?
4. What is the relation of the Christian life to good citizenship?
5. What is the difference of the law as presented in the Old Testament and in the New Testament?
6. What are some of the outstanding brotherhoods of men and in what respects do they conform to the brotherhood as taught by Christ?

Clericus says: "Supreme love to God is the greatest force in any human being; when active in human life it makes the purest motives, the largest possibilities, the noblest character, the highest ideals, the largest usefulness. By loving God we learn how to love our fellowmen."

Lesson Prayer: "O Lord, we thank thee for such a revelation of truth that stands all attacks of critics and liberates power that makes truth victorious. Help us to Try truth with Try holy love which will empower us to stand all tests and criticisms and bring honor and glory to thee."

Imaginary Fortunes

A young man recently called on a friend saying, "I have a plan in my mind that will produce a fortune," and then he explained the details.

But, said my friend, "How do you know your plan will produce a fortune?"

The young man repeated much that he had said only with greater emphasis and pointed to the success of others that had gone on the theory, "nothing ventured, nothing gained."

"But," said my friend, "you say this plan is in your mind? Let me ask you a question. What would happen if you would lose your mind?"

"Why, if I would lose my mind, I would be dead broke," was the reply. D. CARL YODER.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

©1927 D. CARL YODER

This lesson records catch questions so clearly framed as to impale Jesus to answer them whichever way he would; he answered the questions with such candid replies that simply told the truth which not only answered the questioner but had convicting power.

Vs. 13, 14. "And they said unto him, is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar?" This question was introduced by flattery and it lacked the right motive. The question had in it a crafty snare; if he answered "no" he would bring down the Roman hand; if he answered "yes" he would be branded by the Jews as a traitor. This is a question that could not be answered by yes or no.

V. 15 "Why make ye trial of me?" No ideal state has yet appeared. Bad citizens were abroad; they tempt and trouble the good; but the good emerges as gold that is tried by fire.

Vs. 16, 17. "Whose is this image and superscription? Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." Christ meant that in return for the earthly blessings conferred by Rome, it was right to make payment in form of taxes and that such payment did not conflict with complete obedience and allegiance to God in return for the heavenly blessings which God conferred.—Dr. Erdman.

V. 28. "And one of the scribes asked him, what commandment is first of all?" This was an acknowledged test question debated by leading Jewish scholars. It was putting Christ to the test of the highest education of the day.

Vs. 29, 30. "Jesus answered, the first is, Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God, the Lord is one; and thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy mind and with all thy strength." Jesus drew his answer from the scriptures (Deauteronomy 6:4-5) and quoted what every devout Jew recited twice a day. The first commandment means that one should get right with God by loving Him. Love is a comprehensive state of soul, gathering up in itself all the affections of the heart, the intelligence of the mind, and the energies of the will.

V. 31. "The second is this, thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these." If we love God we must love men, too, for men are created children of God and all men are brothers. This answer ought to have produced conviction for sin among his questioners who considered themselves "the better than thou" class.

Vs. 32-34. "And the scribes said unto him, of a truth, teacher, thou hast well said that he is one and there is none other but he. And Jesus said unto him, thou art not far from the kingdom." The scribe was almost a Christian. One who is not far from the kingdom may in the end be as far from it as the most terrible sinner.—Prof. Edward Parks.

IN OBSERVING THE WORK OF ONE OF MY PRIMARY TEACHERS I FIND THAT SHE SELDOM TELLS STORIES BUT SPENDS THE LESSON PERIOD IN ASKING QUESTIONS AND IN DOING HANDWORK. SHOULD NOT STORY TELLING METHOD OF TEACHING BE USED IN THIS DEPARTMENT?

There is a place for conversation growing out of simple questions and also for handwork in teaching children. If these features are correlated to a given lesson, the teacher should be encouraged to continue their use. Story-telling, however, is of first importance in teaching primary children. Perhaps the teacher lacks confidence in her ability to tell stories well. Encourage her to practice this art. Form a story-telling group in your workers' conference period. Furnish your primary teachers with such books as Stories and Story Telling by St. John; Story Telling in Religious Education, Story Telling for Beginners' and Primary Teachers, and Education by Story Telling, Cather. "It may be true, as claimed, that a story teller is not made but born; but it is also true that one may not know that he has the gift for story-telling until he has become a teacher and has begun to tell stories and tries to tell them well."

HOW LARGE SHOULD THE JUNIOR CLASSES IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL BE?

It depends entirely upon the number of TRAINED teachers available. With trained teachers, it is well to have classes having six to eight members; in case there are only a few trained teachers better have larger classes than to have small classes taught by untrained teachers. This principle applies to other grades as well.

THE BETTER WAY

(The Secular Press and Religious News)

One of the significant findings of the recent Church Publicity Conference is this one: "We recognize an awakened and increased interest by the secular press concerning religious news. We are glad to note the growing tendencies of press associations newspapers and magazines toward synthetic co-operation with the Christian church in giving general publicity to news concerning plans and acheivement of the church; and we express our appreciation to the press for this development."

"We have further satisfaction that more and more the daily press is training men and women in its staff to develop and interpret church news. The churches have a great opportunity and a real responsibility in this movement. The churches must do their part. They must make the news of their activities readily available in true newspaper style. The press has readily welcomed this aid wherever it has been intelligently established."

BIG MANDELL-M'CLARIN FIGHT FINALLY ON TONIGHT

FIGHTERS TO WEIGH IN FOR BATTLE AGAIN

Betting Odds Back At 7 To 5 Again On Sammy To Win

NEW YORK, May 19 — Twice postponed because of the weather the lightweight championship bout between Sammy Mandell, the titleholder and Jimmy McLarnin will be held at the Polo grounds tonight unless weather interferes a third time.

Another postponement will cause the match to be delayed until Monday night. There was a light rain falling this morning indicating possibility of another postponement.

The fighters will be required to weigh in again today at 2 p. m. and it was felt in many quarters that both of them would have trouble making the weight. When they weighed in last Thursday Mandell had to take an extra half pound off by a strenuous 15 minute workout in order to make 135 pounds. McLarnin weighed 134½.

Betting odds were back at 7 to 5 today on Handell, but McLarnin found plenty of favor with the betting gentry. It was reliably estimated that half a million dollars will change hands on this bout, which has created more interest than any held this year in New York.

"The delay hasn't bothered McLarnin any," Pop Fostered, his manager, said today. "He's strong as a bull and can stand the delay better than Mandell."

Eddie Kane, Mandell's manager, appears to be the only one in the champion's camp worried.

FACE THE FUTURE IN PLANNING PAVING PROGRAMS

ON engineering matters, a road builder must be as precise as a slide rule—as practical as a pick handle —and have the vision of a dreamer in planning for the traffic of tomorrow.

Underestimating future needs has been an error of the past. First dirt roads, then gravel, and other roads fell before the pounding of the traffic and the action of the weather.

Meanwhile, the never-ending increase of automobiles continues . . . heavy high-speed busses grow in numbers . . . capacity load-carrying trucks are multiplying . . . and highway usage is becoming heavier and heavier.

Brick-surfaced pavements are cheapest for this heavy duty. They have a record of giving service for thirty or more years at a low maintenance cost. National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

STUDEBAKER'S $795 ERSKINE SIX

Sets Ten New Records by Traveling 1000 miles in 984 minutes

PROVING ITS CHAMPIONSHIP STUDEBAKER HERITAGE

ON April 26, two strictly stock Erskine Club Sedans—exactly like those you can purchase from any Studebaker dealer—each traveled 1000 miles in less than 1000 consecutive minutes.

The run took place at Atlantic City Speedway, and was supervised by officials of the American Automobile Association who verified the stock design of the cars.

As a result, ten new records for stock cars under $1000 were established by the Erskine Six. And Studebaker has demonstrated that its 75-year-old traditions for careful building are carried through in the design, materials and workmanship of this low-priced fine car—named for Albert Russel Erskine, Studebaker's president.

Although sold at the lowest price at which any Studebaker-built car was ever offered ($795 f. o. b. factory), Studebaker has not permitted any compromise in the materials or workmanship entering into the Erskine Six. That is why this car was able to travel 1000 miles at better than a mile a minute—why you can drive your Erskine Six 40 miles an hour even when NEW—why the Erskine is so economical to maintain and to operate.

A few minutes behind the wheel of the New Erskine Six will introduce you to a type of performance as sensational for its price class as that of the World's Champion Commander is to the field of higher priced cars.

STUDEBAKER'S
$795 ERSKINE SIX
Sets Ten New Records
by Traveling 1000 miles
in 984 minutes

proving ITS CHAMPIONSHIP STUDEBAKER HERITAGE

ON April 26, two strictly stock Erskine Club Sedans—exactly like those you can purchase from any Studebaker dealer—each traveled 1000 miles in less than 1000 consecutive minutes.

The run took place at Atlantic City Speedway, and was supervised by officials of the American Automobile Association who verified the stock design of the cars.

As a result, ten new records for stock cars under $1000 were established by the Erskine Six. And Studebaker has demonstrated that its 76-year-old traditions for careful building are carried through in the design, materials and workmanship of this low-priced fine car—named for Albert Russel Erskine, Studebaker's president.

Although sold at the lowest price at which any Studebaker-built car was ever offered ($795 f. o. b. factory), Studebaker has not permitted any compromise in the materials or workmanship entering into the Erskine Six. That is why this car was able to travel 1000 miles at better than a mile a minute—why you can drive your Erskine Six 40 miles an hour even when NEW—why the Erskine is so economical to maintain and to operate.

A few minutes behind the wheel of the New Erskine Six will introduce you to a type of performance as sensational for its price class as that of the World's Champion Commander is to the field of higher priced cars.

FACE THE FUTURE IN PLANNING PAVING PROGRAMS

ON engineering matters, a road builder must be as precise as a slide rule—as practical as a pick handle —and have the vision of a dreamer in planning for the traffic of tomorrow.

Underestimating future needs has been an error of the past. First dirt roads, then gravel, and other roads fell before the pounding of the traffic and the action of the weather.

Meanwhile, the never-ending increase of automobiles continues . . . heavy high-speed busses grow in numbers . . . capacity load-carrying trucks are multiplying . . . and highway usage is becoming heavier and heavier.

Brick-surfaced pavements are cheapest for this heavy duty. They have a record of giving service for thirty or more years at a low maintenance cost. National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

NOT ALL POETS VERSIFY

An English literary magazine recently undertook a discussion of American poetry. After long consideration, it concluded that America does not breed poets, and has today no poetry really worth mentioning.

A country that cannot produce songs is in a bad way. But, leaving the defense of the home-bred poets to our own literary critics, we can call to mind a little story told by Otto H. Kahn, famous New York banker and art patron, in a recent address.

Mr. Kahn told of taking a distinguished European visitor to see the late E. H. Harriman, railway magnate, who was supposed to be an extremely hard-boiled business man. After the interview, the European turned to Mr. Kahn and said:

"Why, that hard-boiled Harriman of yours is a great poet; only he rhymes in rails!"

We have a great many men like Harriman; men who are born poets, but who weave their harmonies out of steel and concrete. The land is covered with their masterpieces. They have taken the nation, and shaped it into a mighty epic, in which the cantos are tales of cities that were built, mountains that were cut in two, rivers that were harnessed and deserts that were spanned.

What is a poet anyway? Is he not a man who has greater vision than the rest of us; a man who can see harmony where we can see only discord, who can look beyond the confusion of the present and see turmoil resolving itself into peace, who can detect meanings where we can see only chaos? And who, of all men in America, does exactly this—but the business leader?

This does not mean that Ford could have been a Shelley if he had tried, or that Rockefeller is a Shakespeare in disguise. It does not mean that a greater painter was wasted when J. P. Morgan entered his father's banking house or that Samuel Insull should have spent his youth in a conservatory of music.

But it does mean this; every nation, in every age, has produced certain outstanding gifted men who were able to sound the chord to which their fellows would respond. And in this country, today, those men are the industrialists.

It is our fate to make our poetry out of materials instead of words. It is our destiny to be in tune with the harmonies of factory, mine and railroad. Let us make the most of it. We have our poets. Some day the world will begin to appreciate the meter in which they sing.

HOME TOWN BACKING

It helps a lot if we talk in favor of our home town, but if we do not back up that talk in a more substantial way, there is something a bit hollow in the support we give our local community.

Money is said to talk, and it talks very loudly in favor of every effort of home town progress when we have a strong feeling that our money should be spent at home, and when we carry out that feeling. Such action on the part of our people places the town on a substantial basis. The business that is backed up by such home support is going to prosper and provide employment for a lot of people, and pay substantial taxes, and it is going to provide the means by which progressive movements can be supported.

One sympathizes deeply with this father and hopes he will get his little boy back It has been written, "all that a man has he will give for his life" It is equally true that a man will give all that he has for his son's life There is no tragedy quite as poignant as the loss of a little child.

Old San Francisco

BY ALLIE LOWE MILES

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Buckwell, San Francisco boss, with lawyer, Brandon, attempts to gain possession of Vasquez ranch, occupied by Vasquez and his beautiful granddaughter Dolores. Terry, Brandon's nephew, who loves Dolores, discloses their plot. Terry and Dolores have misunderstanding. Dolores falls into Buckwell's clutches. Terry saves her. Angered, Buckwell uses force to oust Vasquez, but is defeated. He tries guile, but Vasquez heeds Terry's warning and confronts Buckwell. Vasquez dies from stroke caused by Buckwell's threats. Dolores, alone in the world, discovers Buckwell's Chinese origin and tells Terry. They expose Buckwell, but he discovers their action and kidnaps them both.

Chapter XV—Continued

She was the very picture of proud truth and too young and innocent in appearance to be capable of a lie, especially a lie with such tremendous consequences as the one she had just uttered. Even the Chinamen realized this.

"Are you sure of what you say?" again questioned Lu Fong.

"I swear by my Grandfather's memory that my story is true!"

"What do you desire that we do in the matter?" The leader of the Inner Circle was thoroughly aroused.

"I want Senor Buckwell to be—punished—" Dolores was almost overcome from the emotional strain and could say no more

"Yes!" Lu Fong bared his teeth like a tiger ready for the promised kill.

The other Chinamen were no less cruel in their expressions and anticipation of revenge.

"Let the word spread," announced Lu Fong, rising with calm assurance, "that the persecutor of our people—he who contemptuously called us 'lowly yellow scum'—is a renegade to his race and his creed."

"Accept it, please, as a token of my gratitude."

The Tong men nodded assent and quickly withdrew to pass on word of their leader's message in various directions.

"Furthermore," continued Lu Fong, turning back to Dolores with deference, "we shall call him to account before those of the race to which he pretends—the white bosses shall be the Judges."

With the quick, silent motion of a snake San Toy, unnoticed, slid out of the room from between the drawn curtain and sped on her way to tell Buckwell the arresting news.

"When will you ask Senor Buckwell to account for himself?" inquired Terry.

"Before another sun has set," promptly replied Lu Fong with decision. "We will call on him tomorrow and disclose our information."

Dolores nodded her approval.

Lu Fong saw and for the first time indulged in a smile. It was a gentle smile of appreciation, and Dolores was not the least annoyed.

"It would give me pleasure to confer upon you a token of my thanks," said Lu Fong in a voice that indicated a niceness of which he was not generally thought capable, and turning to an ornate chest on a nearby table he selected an exquisitely handsome jade ornament on a slender silken cord. "Accept it, please, as a token of my gratitude," and bowing low he offered it to Dolores.

She admired the beautiful ornament and instinctively reached for it, but drew back and shook her head when she saw his long, slightly curled finger nails.

Terry noticed her hesitancy and nudging her on the elbow indicated that she had better take it. Lu Fong's head was still bowed and fortunately he did not notice.

"Thank you; it is lovely," said Dolores. She extended her hand gingerly to be sure that she would not touch the Chinaman, but to her surprise he appeared not to notice and stepping closer slipped the silken cord over her head.

As far as Lu Fong was concerned, the incident was over. Clapping his hands three times in quick succession, he stood like a statue and waited until a native servant appeared.

"Show my friends," he instructed significantly, "above to the street and see that no harm befalls them."

And then before Dolores and Terry knew what was happening they were bowed from the room. The guide led them through a strange tunnel-like passage which eventually brought them into a Chinese curio shop.

The keeper was there alone working busily at nothing. He and the guide exchanged brief nods and jointly opened the double doors to permit their master's friends to pass out unmolested.

Terry and Dolores thankfully breathed the fresh night air and looked about to get their bearings.

They were on Du Pont street, a short ways below the cafe they had entered earlier in the evening.

"Terry, I never want to come to any of these places again," said Dolores vehemently.

"And you never will. I have had my lesson at bringing you out—this is the last time." And sighing gratefully that it was all over without mishap, he helped her into the carriage.

"The Vasquez hacienda," Terry said to the sleepy driver, and settled back to enjoy the moonlight drive home with Dolores.

But no sooner had they passed the bright lights of that particular section than Chris Buckwell stepped from the shadows with Jimmie on one side and the Texas Kid, a notorious gangster, on the other.

"There they are," nodded Buckwell as the carriage drove past. "Get busy—you know your orders."

As soon as Buckwell gave the word his henchmen rushed out in the street and swung on the carriage steps—one on either side. Quicker than it takes to tell about it Jimmie stuffed a gag in Dolores's mouth and the Texas Kid subjected Terry to the same treatment, in addition to snapping a pair of bracelets on his wrists. Deprived of hands and voice, Terry used his feet to great advantage in the pit of the Texas Kid's stomach. The bottom of the carriage was a scrambled mass of men until Jimmie snapped another pair of handcuffs around his victim's ankles. Terry was powerless.

He and Dolores looked into each others' eyes. A world of love and agonized misgivings flashed from one to the other.

Terry cursed himself again and again for having brought Dolores, and he shuddered at what was probably in store for her.

"Can the soft looks," commented Jimmie. "Say, Pete," he continued, reaching up and poking the driver in the back, "the gang's all here—let's go home!"

"Sure we'll get there—these horses ain't half bad. And the driver turned around to show his grinning face to the surprised young man and woman in the back.

He was not the man Terry had originally engaged!

Chris Buckwell sauntered out from his shadow and stopped to light a cigar. He was well satisfied. His plans had been made and executed within a half hour after San Toy rushed to him with her report. A cruel light gleamed in his eyes as he realized that those who were trying to destroy him were now in his power.

CHAPTER XVI

Dolores' Honor or Terry's Life

Jimmie and the Texas Kid derived considerable sport from watching their bound and gagged prisoners during that enforced drive in the carriage they had confiscated from Terry.

They kept up a constant stream of slang that Dolores could only partially understand. Terry listened intently. He wanted to gain an inkling of why and by whom they had been captured. It was evident that the thugs who attacked them in the street were merely acting as tools for some master mind.

"That's the biggest mouthful ye ever had in them pretty lips," said Jimmie, rearranging Dolores' gag so she would neither choke nor speak.

Her eyes opened wide and flared in anger, then, as she realized the hopelessness of the situation, she closed them tightly. Tears forced their way through the long lashes and rolled down her cheeks. She did not open them again until the sound of Terry's voice made her look at him in surprise.

His gag was being tied on more securely, but a quick twist of his head afforded momentary freedom, and regardless of the fact that Dolores could hear, he cursed his captors with a fierceness that amazed [illegible]

romantic about Kentucky, especially in the spring and fall. Birdena Cooper Gilman, writing for Kentucky Folk-Lore and Poetry magazine, sings a song of "Ole Kentucky when It's Spring", and we want you to read it, just for the fun of it, nothing else, just for a thought:

I don't know what your dreams o' heaven may be;
Spring in Kentucky's good enuf fer me.
With winter's gloom an' chill all passed away,
The hull world growin' sweeter ev'ry day;
An' when the redbird whistles, sweet and clear,
I stop my plowin' jest to stand an' hear....

I love the months, from winter round through fall,
But, in Kentucky, May's the queen of all!
Dressed like a bride in garments wondrous fair,
With bridal wreaths upon her shinin' hair.
Kentucky meadows, starred with blossoms sweet,
Make emerald carpets fer her royal feet.

Blue flags, in gorgeous robes, are on parade,
Shy valley-lilies blossoms in the shade.
Tulips, like ladies with their heads held high.
Nod friendly greetin's when the breeze goes by.
Wee Johnny-jump-ups, hidin' in the grass
Like merry children, charm me when I pass.
I step aside, fer fear my clumsy feet
Might trample on 'em, smilin' there so sweet.

Along the river's bank the redbud gay
Flaunts all her beauty when I pass that way,
Invitin' me to linger. Dogwood White
Gleams from the hillside, sure a purty sight.
The distant hills are wrapped in purple haze;
Down in the pasture, where the cattle graze,
As if it has a secret no one knows.
The little brook is singin' as it flows.

Wild rice is not a true rice. The grains are longer and less rounded than those of true rice and the husk is somewhat darker in color. Wild rice is usually served as a vegetable, especially with game.

It is possible to transplant a tree 40 feet tall if it is properly handled and prepared with enough soil. The Department of Agriculture says that a tree as large as three feet in diameter can be transplanted.

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Buckwell, San Francisco boss, with lawyer, Brandon, attempts to gain possession of Vasquez ranch, occupied by Vasquez and his beautiful granddaughter Dolores. Terry, Brandon's nephew, who loves Dolores, discloses their plot. Terry and Dolores have misunderstanding. Dolores falls into Buckwell's clutches. Terry saves her. Angered, Buckwell uses force to oust Vasquez, but is defeated. He tries guile, but Vasquez heeds Terry's warning and confronts Buckwell. Vasquez dies from stroke caused by Buckwell's threats. Dolores, alone in the world, discovers Buckwell's Chinese origin and tells Terry. They expose Buckwell, but he discovers their action and kidnaps them both.

She was the very picture of proud truth and too young and innocent in appearance to be capable of a lie, especially a lie with such tremendous consequences as the one she had just uttered. Even the Chinamen realized this.

"Are you sure of what you say?" again questioned Lu Fong.

"I swear by my Grandfather's memory that my story is true!"

"What do you desire that we do in the matter?" The leader of the Inner Circle was thoroughly aroused.

"I want Senor Buckwell to be—punished—" Dolores was almost overcome from the emotional strain and could say no more.

"Yes!" Lu Fong bared his teeth like a tiger ready for the promised kill.

The other Chinamen were no less cruel in their expressions and anticipation of revenge.

"Let the word spread," announced Lu Fong, rising with calm assurance, "that the persecutor of our people—he who contemptuously called us 'lowly yellow scum'—is a renegade to his race and his creed."

"Accept it, please, as a token of my gratitude."

The Tong men nodded assent and quickly withdrew to pass on word of their leader's message in various directions.

"Furthermore," continued Lu Fong, turning back to Dolores with deference, "we shall call him to account before those of the race to which he pretends—the white bosses shall be the Judges."

With the quick, silent motion of a snake San Toy, unnoticed, slid out of the room from between the drawn curtain and sped on her way to tell Buckwell the arresting news.

"When will you ask Senor Buckwell to account for himself?" inquired Terry.

"Before another sun has set," promptly replied Lu Fong with decision. "We will call on him tomorrow and disclose our information."

Dolores nodded her approval.

Lu Fong saw and for the first time indulged in a smile. It was a gentle smile of appreciation, and Dolores was not the least annoyed.

"It would give me pleasure to confer upon you a token of my thanks," said Lu Fong in a voice that indicated a niceness of which he was not generally thought capable, and turning to an ornate chest on a nearby table he selected an exquisitely handsome jade ornament on a slender silken cord. "Accept it, please, as a token of my gratitude," and bowing low he offered it to Dolores.

She admired the beautiful ornament and instinctively reached for it, but drew back and shook her head when she saw his long, slightly curled finger nails.

Terry noticed her hesitancy and nudging her on the elbow indicated that she had better take it. Lu Fong's head was still bowed and fortunately he did not notice.

"Thank you; it is lovely," said Dolores. She extended her hand gingerly to be sure that she would not touch the Chinaman, but to her surprise he appeared not to notice and stepping closer slipped the silken cord over her head.

As far as Lu Fong was concerned, the incident was over. Clapping his hands three times in quick succession, he stood like a statue and waited until a native servant appeared.

"Show my friends," he instructed significantly, "above to the street and see that no harm befalls them."

And then before Dolores and Terry knew what was happening they were bowed from the room. The guide led them through a strange tunnel-like passage which eventually brought them into a Chinese curio shop.

The keeper was there alone working busily at nothing. He and the guide exchanged brief nods and jointly opened the double doors to permit their master's friends to pass out unmolested.

Terry and Dolores thankfully breathed the fresh night air and looked about to get their bearings.

They were on Du Pont street, a short ways below the cafe they had entered earlier in the evening.

"Terry, I never want to come to any of these places again," said Dolores vehemently.

"And you never will. I have had my lesson at bringing you out—this is the last time." And sighing gratefully that it was all over without mishap, he helped her into the carriage.

"The Vasquez hacienda," Terry said to the sleepy driver, and settled back to enjoy the moonlight drive home with Dolores.

But no sooner had they passed the bright lights of that particular section than Chris Buckwell stepped from the shadows with Jimmie on one side and the Texas Kid, a notorious gangster, on the other.

"There they are," nodded Buckwell as the carriage drove past. "Get busy—you know your orders."

As soon as Buckwell gave the word his henchmen rushed out in the street and swung on the carriage steps—one on either side. Quicker than it takes to tell about it Jimmie stuffed a gag in Dolores's mouth and the Texas Kid subjected Terry to the same treatment, in addition to snapping a pair of bracelets on his wrists. Deprived of hands and voice, Terry used his feet to great advantage in the pit of the Texas Kid's stomach. The bottom of the carriage was a scrambled mass of men until Jimmie snapped another pair of handcuffs around his victim's ankles. Terry was powerless.

He and Dolores looked into each others' eyes. A world of love and agonized misgivings flashed from one to the other.

Terry cursed himself again and again for having brought Dolores, and he shuddered at what was probably in store for her.

"Can the soft looks," commented Jimmie. "Say, Pete," he continued, reaching up and poking the driver in the back, "the gang's all here—let's go home!"

"Sure we'll get there—these horses ain't half bad. And the driver turned around to show his grinning face to the surprised young man and woman in the back.

He was not the man Terry had originally engaged!

Chris Buckwell sauntered out from his shadow and stopped to light a cigar. He was well satisfied. His plans had been made and executed within a half hour after San Toy rushed to him with her report. A cruel light gleamed in his eyes as he realized that those who were trying to destroy him were now in his power.

CHAPTER XVI
Dolores' Honor or Terry's Life

Jimmie and the Texas Kid derived considerable sport from watching their bound and gagged prisoners during that enforced drive in the carriage they had confiscated from Terry.

They kept up a constant stream of slang that Dolores could only partially understand. Terry listened intently. He wanted to gain an inkling of why and by whom they had been captured. It was evident that the thugs who attacked them in the street were merely acting as tools for some master mind.

"That's the biggest mouthful ye ever had in them pretty lips," said Jimmie, rearranging Dolores' gag so she would neither choke nor speak.

Her eyes opened wide and flared in anger, then, as she realized the hopelessness of the situation, she closed them tightly. Tears forced their way through the long lashes and rolled down her cheeks. She did not open them again until the sound of Terry's voice made her look at him in surprise.

His gag was being tied on more securely, but a quick twist of his head afforded momentary freedom, and, regardless of the fact that Dolores could hear, he cursed his captors with vehemence that aroused their admiration.

CIRCLEVILLE FIVE YEARS AGO

Saturday, May 18th, 1923

Beginning Sunday, the Scioto Valley Traction Co. will run Sunday excursions to all points on the line at very attractive rates, that is, at one fare and a third for the round trip.

Under this plan, the rate to Columbus and return is $1.05; to Lancaster and return, $1, and Chillicothe 80 cents.

Mrs. L. B. James and Mrs. J. G. Wilder attended a card party given by Mrs. Walter L. Harner at Xenia this afternoon.

Miss Agnes McKenzie, trained nurse, has been called to Columbus to attend Frank Rader, who is a patient at Mt. Carmel hospital.

Misses Marvene Goff, Elizabeth Tolbert, Ethel Schneider and Jeanette Rowe spent the day in Columbus.

romantic about Kentucky, especially in the spring and fall. Birdena Cooper Gilman, writing for Kentucky Folk-Lore and Poetry magazine, sings a song of "Ole Kentucky when It's Spring", and we want you to read it, just for the fun of it, nothing else, just for a thought:

I don't know what your dreams
o' heaven may be;
Spring in Kentucky's good enuf
fer me.
With winter's gloom an' chill all passed away,
The hull world growin' sweeter
ev'ry day;
An' when the redbird whistles,
sweet and clear,
I stop my plowin' jest to stand an'
hear....

I love the months, from winter
round through fall,
But, in Kentucky, May's the queen of all!
Dressed like a bride in garments
wondrous fair,
With bridal wreaths upon her shinin' hair.
Kentucky meadows, starred with blossoms sweet,
Make emerald carpets fer her royal
feet.

Blue flags, in gorgeous robes, are on parade,
Shy valley-lilies blossoms in the shade.
Tulips, like ladies with their heads held high.
Nod friendly greetin's when the breeze goes by.
Wee Johnny-jump-ups, hidin' in the grass
Like merry children, charm me when I pass.
I step aside, fer fear my clumsy
feet
Might trample on 'em, smilin' there so sweet,

Along the river's bank the redbud
gay
Flaunts all her beauty when I pass that way,
Invitin' me to linger. Dogwood
White
Gleams from the hillside, sure a purty sight.
The distant hills are wrapped in purple haze;
Down in the pasture, where the cattle graze,
As if it has a secret no one knows.
The little brook is singin' as it flows.

Differs From True Rice

Wild rice is not a true rice. The grains are longer and less rounded than those of true rice and the husk is somewhat darker in color. Wild rice is usually served as a vegetable, especially with game.

Tree Transplanting

It is possible to transplant a tree 40 feet tall if it is properly handled and prepared with enough soil. The Department of Agriculture says that a tree as large as three feet in diameter can be tranplanted.

Lesson for May 20

JESUS TEACHING IN THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—He taught them as one having authority.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Answers Some Hard Questions.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Teaches Great Duties.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Answers His Critics.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Love, the Law of the Kingdom.

I. The Parable of the Husbandmen (vv. 1-12).

Having put the scribes, chief priests and elders to confusion by a skillful counter question when they demanded to know His authority, Jesus, by means of a story lays before them His claim of divine authority, and charges them with betrayal of trust and with plotting to murder the very Son of God. His teaching in this parable cut them to the quick, and they sought to lay hands upon Him, but desisted for fear of the people.

1. The vineyard (v. 1), represented Israel (See Ps. 80 and Isa. 5).

2. The husbandmen (v. 1) represented the rulers who were charged with responsibility of the spiritual interests of the people.

3. Messengers (vv. 2-5) represented the prophets whom God sent to Israel, even including John the Baptist.

4. The Son (vv. 6-8) represented Jesus Himself.

5. The judgment of the Lord of the vineyard (v. 9). This represented the time when the Jews shall be brought to account for their treatment of the servants of God and of Jesus Himself.

II. The Tribute Money (vv. 13-17)).

They already would have gladly taken Him by violence and killed him, but they feared the people. In order to destroy Him they seek to discredit Him among the people (v. 13).

1. Their question (v. 14).

"Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not?" The Pharisees contended that since God was the real King of Israel, it was not obligatory, yea, it was even sinful to give tribute (taxes) to a heathen king. The Herodians were supporters of Herod; with flattery on their lips, they put their subtle question. For Him to answer "Yes" would have discredited him with the people, and to have said "No" would have made Him liable to arrest as an enemy of the government.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 15-17).

He asks that a coin be brought and inquires whose image and superscription it bears, declaring that those who accept the coin of Caesar should pay taxes to Caesar. In this reply the Lord escapes their trap and enunciates a principle which applies to all time and conditions as to the Christian's responsibility to civil government.

But being a loyal citizen is not enough. There is a duty to God. Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's.

III. The Resurrection of the Dead. (vv. 18-27).

The Pharisees and Herodians being silenced, the Sadducees came with a question which involved not only immortality but the resurrection of the body. They denied the reality of the resurrection, and believed not in angel nor spirit (Acts 28:8).

1. The case proposed (vv. 19:23).

The law of Moses made it not only legal but morally binding in the case of a man dying without children for his brother to take his wife (Deut. 22:5). They propose the case of a woman married successively to seven brothers. They ask whose wife she will be in the resurrection.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 24-26).

By a quotation from the Mosaic law (Ex. 3:6) He proves the resurrection of the dead, and their continued existence after death as glorified beings. The immortal spirit clothed with a deathless body in His thought. He shows that marriage is only for the present life—does not belong to the resurrection life. He points out to them that their great error was due to two things.

(1) Ignorance of the Scriptures (v. 24). In the very Scriptures which they professed to believe was positive proof of the resurrection (Ex. 3:6).

(2) Ignorance of the power of God (v. 24). God is able to provide a life where there is no death, no births or marriages. In heaven life will be on a plane infinitely higher than the most blessed relationships of this life.

IV. The Great Commandment of the Law. (vv. 28-34).

Christ's answer shows marvelous insight. He sums up man's whole duty in one word—love. The first and great commandment is supreme and undivided love of God. The second is like unto it in that love is its center, but love for our neighbor in the measure that we love ourselves. Having put His questioners to silence, Jesus now puts them a question which involves the central doctrine of the Christian faith—the person of Christ (vv. 35-40). Is He human or divine or both?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Love, the Law of the Kingdom.

I. The Parable of the Husbandmen (vv. 1-12).

Having put the scribes, chief priests and elders to confusion by a skillful counter question when they demanded to know His authority, Jesus, by means of a story lays before them His chaim of divine authority, and charges them with betrayal of trust and with plotting to murder the very Son of God. His teaching in this parable cut them to the quick, and they sought to lay hands upon Him, but desisted for fear of the people.

1. The vineyard (v. 1), represented Israel (See Ps. 80 and Isa. 5).

2. The husbandmen (v. 1) represented the rulers who were charged with responsibility of the spiritual interests of the people.

3. Messengers (vv. 2-5) represented the prophets whom God sent to Israel, even including John the Baptist.

4. The Son (vv. 6-8) represented Jesus Himself.

5. The judgment of the Lord of the vineyard (v. 9). This represented the time when the Jews shall be brought to account for their treatment of the servants of God and of Jesus Himself.

II. The Tribute Money (vv. 13-17)).

They already would have gladly taken Him by violence and killed him, but they feared the people. In order to destroy Him they seek to discredit Him among the people (v. 13).

1. Their question (v. 14).

"Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not?" The Pharisees contended that since God was the real King of Israel, it was not obligatory, yea, it was even sinful to give tribute (taxes) to a heathen king. The Herodians were supporters of Herod; with flattery on their lips, they put their subtle question. For Him to answer "Yes" would have discredited him with the people, and to have said "No" would have made Him liable to arrest as an enemy of the government.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 15-17).

He asks that a coin be brought and inquires whose image and superscription it bears, declaring that those who accept the coin of Caesar should pay taxes to Caesar. In this reply the Lord escapes their trap and enunciates a principle which applies to all time and conditions as to the Christian's responsibility to civil government.

But being a loyal citizen is not enough. There is a duty to God. Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's.

II. The Resurrection of the Dead. (vv. 18-27).

The Pharisees and Herodians being silenced, the Sadducees came with a question which involved not only immortality but the resurrection of the body. They denied the reality of the resurrection, and believed not in angel nor spirit (Acts 28:8).

1. The case proposed (vv. 19:23).

The law of Moses made it not only legal but morally binding in the case of a man dying without children for his brother to take his wife (Deut. 22:5). They propose the case of a woman married successively to seven brothers. They ask whose wife she will be in the resurrection.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 24-26).

By a quotation from the Mosaic law (Ex. 3:6) He proves the resurrection of the dead, and their continued existence after death as glorified beings. The immortal spirit clothed with a deathless body in His thought. He shows that marriage is only for the present life—does not belong to the resurrection life. He points out to them that their great error was due to two things.

(1) Ignorance of the Scriptures (v. 24). In the very Scriptures which they professed to believe was positive proof of the resurrection (Ex. 3:6).

(2) Ignorance of the power of God (v. 24). God is able to provide a life where there is no death, no births or marriages. In heaven life will be on a plane infinitely higher than the most blessed relationships of this life.

IV. The Great Commandment of the Law. (vv. 28-34).

Christ's answer shows marvelous insight. He sums up man's whole duty in one word—love. The first and great commandment is supreme and undivided love of God. The second is like unto it in that love is its center, but love for our neighbor in the measure that we love ourselves. Having put His questioners to silence, Jesus now puts them a question which involves the central doctrine of the Christian faith—the person of Christ (vv. 35-40). Is He human or divine or both?

DERE MOM

Circleville, Ohio, May 12, '28.

Dere Mom:—

I ain't what I used to be. I am gettin worser and worser. I can't tell what it is but I'm not the same.

The other day we was talkin' horv-it-rit-tating when company stayed too long. I tole them I and you always treated 'em fast like they family and then they left. I sed thet was the best remedy. Ain't is so?

Mom, I committed some misdean-amor at schul and Mr. Cain was gain to whip me an first he ast me did I heve any reason why he shouln't punish me fer my diso- beed-ience an I sed yes, because he mite be sick and I didn't think he should take any very much violent exercise.

Our land-iedy tole me if I was a nice boy and didn't have so much worshin, she sed she'd let me have a dog. But mom don't you think thets a rotten way to get a dawg?

One of me dumb friends tole me thet one of me teachers sure was praisin' me to the skies. I sed well I surely wished he would praise me to Cain. Do you believe me?

I was showing some girl acquaintance me report card. She sed we everything was pirty bad, and I sed yes, I hed an idea it ware a forgery.

I went to a circus mom and I sure did like the elephunts cause I liked to se them suck up peanuts with their vacuum cleaner.

Mom I sawed a man run as fast as his legs could carry him after a train the oth-er day. He was all out of wind and I thot I'd be nect and ast him ware he tryin' to ketch thet train an mom he ware the funniest man I ever seed. He sed, no he was jist chasin ther there train out of the yard. I sez to meself well sir its unbelieverable.

I never could get science and the other day we ware ast the question what happens when there is an eclipse of the moon. I didn't want to get a zero so I put down thet a lotta people came out to look fet it. Ain't it wonderful how I kin think up sech brite things? They always tole I tooked after me father—just a chip off the old block.

We has some lessons in health now and I was ast the other day if I used tooth paste and I sed well I like to know what for because my teeth weren't lose why I hever hears of the stuff before did you?

Mom I'h getting powerful sleepy an I'll be tellin' you bed time stories if you don't iet me quit. I'll be seein you soon anyhow. How is all the animals enyhow? I'll like to hear em.

Your very sleepily
Ho-ho-hum

WON FIRST CUP

Last week Miss Kuhlman, an alumna of Wittenburg university accompanied Mabel Young and Herman Compton to her Alma Mater in order that they might participate in Wittenburg's interscholastic Oratorical contest One representative of C H S, Herman Compton returned cum laude. Compton, a senior, won first place— a great honor No only that but he won for Circleville high her first cup.

The cup is silver, lined with gold and engraved on the outside with the date and the event For himself, Herman won a beautiful gold medal

Herman Compton deserves a great deal of credit and praise We should like to see Circleville show her appreciation in some fitting way. Herman's overwhelming success is proof of the lines, Where there's a will, there's a way"

TIGERS FOURTH PLACE

Columbus Central high won the central district meet. Unusual scores were made and nine class-A meet records were broken.

Circleville was entered in class B. Pickens broke the class B record for 200 yard dash and the previous one of class A, but Moxley of Columbus Central ran it in 22.5 seconds, instead of Pickens' 23.8 record and set a new class A record. Pickens won another gold medal for placing first in the 100 yard dash.

Bales, too, brought home a medal—a bronze instead of gold— for third place in the broad jump Charles Goeller also won a bronze medal for third place in the 220 yard low hurdles

Peters had tough luck that day, for he missed his stride and toppled for the first three hurdles in high and was disqualified. He placed fourth in low hurdles, and fifth in the shot put.

We know nothing else, but bad luck was the cause of this, for "Pete" had proven to us that he knows his "stuff" when it comes to track.

Heiskell, a sophomore, was eliminated in the preliminaries, but he has yet two more years to recuperate.

These four representatives in the finals did excellently, for they took 19 points in the finals and ranked fourth out of the twenty school that entered. Liberty Union won the class B meet.

The four men who scored, Pickents 10, Peters 3, Bales 3, Goeller 3, are eligible for the state meets.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Miss Pigman has decided to hold an exhibit on May 24, the day of visitation. The exhibit will be held in the regular domestic science room, instead of the gym where it was held previous years- because of the decorations for the junior and senior banquet. The dining room will also be arranged and decorated for the occasion This will only include the high school pupils work, and not the grades.

VISITATION DAY

Visitation day will be held on May 24, 1928 The seventh and eighth grades and high school will be included in the schedule There will be no afternoon session for these classes The time has been set for 7 30 The afternoon classes at night will be conducted in regular fashion. The object of this night session is to give parents a chance to visit the classes and to observe how they are conducted An invitation is extended to all parents having children in these classes.

THE CENTRAL OUTLOOK

A contest open to the art pupils in the high schools of Columbus in which they showed their ability to plan and decorate show windows was staged by B F. Kerr and Sons Co Grandview won the contest with a beautifully decorated bedroom.

FRESHMAN DEBATES

Last week the Freshman A class debating team, consisting of Doris Peters, Mary Roth, and Robert Rooney, defeated the C class team, consisting of Esther Bowsher, Theodore Blackson, and Thomas White, on the question:—Resolved: That Rebecca would make a better wife for Ivanhoe than Rowena. The judges for the debate were Ewing Ross, Esther Drum, Paul Kirwin and Mildred Cameron—all being public speaking students.

Tuesday, May 15, the A team debated the B class representatives, who were Mildred Greenlee, Elizabeth Groom and Gladys Jones. Maynard Thomas was elected, but could not serve because of sickness. Again the A section was as decidedly victorious as before. The judges votes were unanimous. The judges were Mildred Cameron, Esther Drum and Paul Kirwin of the Public Speaking class. Doris Peters received choice of judges as best speaker.

Resolved: That the Newspapers are Agencies of Unrest and Immorality. Affirmative team winning faction.

The chosen teams of the sophomore B section debated the aforesaid question and the affirmative team, namely, Emil Ross, and Richard Nickerson, won the debate. The negative side of the question was very ably upheld by Oliver Weaver and Harold Davis.

Each debater had some qualities that were worth encouraging, but he star of the debaters was Emil Ross. Ross has the knack of a debater for he wastes no time in getting down to business, and reaching the kernel of the question. He has a clever and practical method of rebuttal, which is one of the first requisites of a debater.

The judges for this debate were Veronica Kuhns, Irma Rader and Marie Kellstadt.

Resolved: Inheritance Tax in U. S. Should be Abolished. Affirmative Team winner.

The affirmative team composed of Pauline Accord and John Heiskell debated the above question against Jeanne Crowe and Helen Palm, members of the negative side. The affrmative faction won the debate according to the decision given by the judges, Mabel Young, Herman Compton and Paul Kirwin.

The class, after having been assigned the debate, chose the speakers for each side and then each student gave his material to the debaters.

The speeches were well organized and just as well delivered. Each speech impressed the hearers as being well prepared and well analyzed.

HI-Y PICNIC

A Hi-Y picnic was held on Monday, May 14, at Dewey park. They went in two cars loaded with boys and plenty of good food that boys like. Since the day was so warm many of the picknickers went in swimming Later two baseball teams were organized from among those present, and some exciting games ensued. We are not sure just what time lunch was served but we bet 10 cents to a dime that it was the last thing on the program.

Late in the evening, the machines were again loaded and rolled into town at ? o'clock.

SOCIETY

PICKAWAY CHAPTER D. A. R. MEET WITH MRS. SHANER

The Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held their regular meeting May 15th at 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. L. T. Shaner, with Mrs. Bertha Teegardin and the Misses Anna and Estelle Grimes, assistant hostesses.

The vice-regent, Mrs. Orion King, led the Flag Salute and presided during the meeting. Responses to the roll call were clippings from the New York Sun, Washington Post and other leading newspapers, in defense of the D. A. R. against the so-called "black list." Under the date of April 25th, 1928, the New York Sun published an editorial, part of which is here quoted.

"In the National Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Washington last week, the question whether the administration of that important and dignified society should be sustained in closing the doors of its scattered chapters to certain advocates of doctrines opposed to its principles was answered in the affirmative by a vote of about 2,000 to 14. This may be described as one incident of a movement to impose on members of the governing body of a private society an obligation to open the doors of its meeting places to every vocal rambler who chances to be in the neighborhood, no matter how antagonistic to the purposes of the society he may be."

Mrs. Asa C. Messenger, of Xenia, Ohio State Chairman of National Defense, gave a splendid address, telling of the enemy within our gates who would overthrow this government of ours, were it possible to do so. Mrs. William Magee Wilson, also of Xenia, past state regent of Ohio, in a very clever manner told of the proceedings of the National Congress in Washington, from which she has just returned home.

Delightful refreshments were served by the hostesses during the social time. The next meeting will be the annual picnic, the last meeting of the year, and will be held Tuesday, June 19th, at the home of Mrs. Ned Bell of Jackson township.

Pickaway-Co Institute W. C. T. U. Held Friday In Brethren Church

THE Pickaway County institute of the W. C. T. U., was held Friday in the United Brethren church on E. Main-st., in Circleville, O., with a good attendance of officers and heads of departments.

The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock and the evening session with the gold medal contest began at 8 o'clock. A song service opened the afternoon session with Lucy B. Price, the county president preseding.

After a short devotional service closing with a prayer by Mrs. Abbie Gussman the following program was presented. Need of stressing Evangelistic department Mrs Elizabeth Wright, of Ashville; new members, Miss Mary Porter; dues, Mrs. Gussman; song, "Win Them One by One" Our Political Responsibilities, Miss Florence Teegardin of Duvall. Our Young People. Mrs. Bessie Long Our Children, Mrs May Reber Crites. Department of Child Welfare, Miss Mary Harpster. Kingston Dialogue; "The Union Signal," Mesdames Lulu and Edith Marion. Temperance and Missions," Mrs. Pearl Adkins, of Atlanta; "Peace and International Arbitration," Mrs Florence Seaburn, Williamsport; "Sabbath Observance" Mrs. Mary E. Gray, of Atlanta, closing with prayer by Mrs. Gray.

The evening session opened with the song "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" and short devotional service conducted by Mrs Price followed by a short playlet—"Prohibition and Law Enforcement" with the following members taking part; Mesdames Bessie M. Long, Nellie Stofer, Katie Denman and Dora Warner.

Following the playlet the Gold Medal contest was in charge of Mrs. Gussman. The first number was "College Oil Cans" by Mrs. Edna Newhouse, of Williamsport; No. 2—Mrs. Catherine Reber, of Walnut-twp., reading "Blasted." No. 3—"Her Mother's Song" Mrs. Maggie Morris, of Columbus; Song by four little girls "Wind the White Ribbon Around the World; No. 4—"The Men of the Nation" Mrs. Julia Weaver; No. 5—"Chiming of the New Year's Bells," Mrs. Wanda Wardell, of Williamsport; No. 6— "The Saloonkeeper and the little White Shoes," Mrs. Laura Drake.

The judges were Mr. Alva White Miss Flora Dunlap and Mrs. D. V. Courtright decided that Mrs. Catherine Reber won the gold medal

MARRIAGE TAKES PLACE AT PRESBYTERIAN MANSE

Miss Anna Baucher of Circleville and Mr. Arthur Adams of Indianapolis, were united in marriage at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the manse on E. Mound-st., by the Rev. E. S. Toensmeier of the Presbyterian church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baucher of 836 S. Scioto-st. She is a graduate of Circleville high school in the class of 1923. For the past five years she has been employed at Witich's confectionery on W. Main-st., where she has made many friends.

Mr. Adams is a salesman for the American Medical association of Indianapolis in which town the couple will make their home.

RECEIVE FLOWERS AND CANDY

Miss Helen Wittich, director of the highly successful operetta, "Miss Cherry Blossom," was presented with two corsages at the Friday night performance. Mr. Zanglein, director of the high school orchestra, received a box of candy, as did Mr. Fetherlin, who coached the members of the cast in their speaking parts. These were the gifts of the pupils who had taken part in the show. Miss Eleanor Snyder, leading lady was also presented with a beautiful corsage.

Following the Friday night performance, Miss Wittich, Mr. Fetherlin, Mr. Zanglein and all of the high school teachers, members of the orchestra and members of the cast were guests at a buffet supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Bales on E. Main-st. A delicious supper was served to about 80 persons.

Foster Bales, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bales, had a leading part in the operetta.

TIMELY LECTURE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

At this time when Katherine Mayo's book "Mother India" is being so much discussed everywhere, the illustrated lecture on India at the Presbyterian church Sunday night will make a special appeal. The time is 7:30 o'clock.

There are in India 3000 castes, none of whom may intermarry. There are more gods than people. There are 2,500,000 wives under 10 years of age and 9,000,000 under 15 years of age.

While not complete, as no one set of views can be complete, the lecture will give an opportunity to learn much of this great land, India.

DERE MOM

Circleville, Ohio, May 12, '28.
Dere Mom:—

I ain't what I used to be. I am gettin worser and worser. I can't tell what it is but I'm not the same.

The other day we was talkin' horv-it-rit-tating when company stayed too long. I tole them I and you always treated 'em fast like they family and then they left. I sed thet was the best remedy. Ain't is so?

Mom, I committed some misdean-amor at schul and Mr. Cain was gain to whip me an first he ast me did I heve any reason why he shouln't punish me fer my diso- beed-ience an I sed yes, because he mite be sick and I didn't think he should take any very much violent exercise.

Our land-ledy tole me if I was a nice boy and didn't have so much worshin,' she sed she'd let me have a dog. But mom don't you think thets a rotten way to get a dawg?

One of me dumb friends tole me thet one of me teachers sure was praisin' me to the skies. I sed well I surely wished he would praise me to Cain. Do you believe me?

I was showing some girl acquaintance me report card. She sed we.. everything was pirty bad, and I sed yes, I hed an idea it ware a forgery.

I went to a circus mom and I sure did like the elephunts cause I liked to se them suck up peanuts with their vacuum cleaner.

Mom I sawed a man run as fast as his legs could carry him after a train the oth-er day. He was all out of wind and I thot I'd be nect and ast him ware he tryin' to ketch thet train an mom he ware the funniest man I ever seed. He sed, no he was jist chasin ther there train out of the yard. I sez to meself well sir its unbelieverable.

I never could get science and the other day we ware ast the question what happens when there is an eclipse of the moon. I didn't want to get a zero so I put down thet a lotta people came out to look fet it. Ain't it wonderful how I kin think up sech brite things? They always tole I tooked after me father—just a chip off the old block.

We has some lessons in health now and I was ast the other day if I used tooth paste and I sed well I like to know what for because my teeth weren't lose why I hever hears of the stuff before did you?

Mom I'h getting powerful sleepy an I'll be tellin' you bed time stories if you don't let me quit. I'll be seein you soon anyhow. How is all the animals enyhow? I'll like to hear em.

Your very sleepily
Ho-ho-hum
Hiram Hoehandle.

P. S. 1—There's a mean song goin' around now its called mean my shadow. I don't sing it.

P. S. 2—Mom, you no you're my favorite author because when you write its generally a check.

WON FIRST CUP

Last week Miss Kuhlman, an alumna of Wittenburg university, accompanied Mabel Young and Herman Compton to her Alma Mater in order that they might participate in Wittenburg's interscholastic Oratorical contest. One representative of C. H. S., Herman Compton returned cum laude. Compton, a senior, won first place— a great honor. Not only that but he won for Circleville high, her first cup.

The cuy is silver, lined with gold and engraved on the outside with the date and the event. For himself, Herman won a beautiful gold medal.

Herman Compton deserves a great deal of credit and praise. We should like to see Circleville show her appreciation in some fitting way. Herman's overwhelming success is proof of the lines, "Where there's a will, there's a way."

TIGERS FOURTH PLACE

Columbus Central high won the central district meet. Unusual scores were made and nine class-A meet records were broken.

Circleville was entered in class B. Pickens broke the class B record for 200 yard dash and the previous one of class A, but Moxley of Columbus Central ran it in 22.5 seconds, instead of Pickens' 23.8 record and set a new class A record. Pickens won another gold medal for placing first in the 100 yard dash.

Bales, too, brought home a medal—a bronze instead of gold— for third place in the broad jump. Charles Goeller also won a bronze medal for third place in the 230 yard low hurdles.

Peters had tough luck that day, for he missed his stride and toppled for the first three hurdles in high and was disqualified. He placed fourth in low hurdles, and fifth in the shot put.

We know nothing else, but bad luck was the cause of this, for "Pete" had proven to us that he knows his "stuff" when it comes to track.

Heiskell, a sophomore, was eliminated in the preliminaries, but he has yet two more years to recuperate.

These four representatives in the finals did excellently, for they took 19 points in the finals and ranked fourth out of the twenty school that entered. Liberty Union won the class B meet.

The four men who scored, Pickents 10, Peters 3, Bales 3, Goeller 3, are eligible for the state meets.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Miss Pigman has decided to hold an exhibit on May 24, the day of visitation. The exhibit will be held in the regular domestic science room, instead of the gym where it was held previous years—because of the decorations for the junior and senior banquet. The dining room will also be arranged and decorated for the occasion. This will only include the high school pupils work, and not the grades.

VISITATION DAY

Visitation day will be held on May 24, 1928. The seventh and eighth grades and high school will be included in the schedule. There will be no afternoon session for these classes. The time has been set for 7:30. The afternoon classes at night will be conducted in regular fashion. The object of this night session is to give parents a chance to visit the classes and to observe how they are conducted. An invitation is extended to all parents having children in these classes.

THE CENTRAL OUTLOOK

A contest open to the art pupils in the high schools of Columbus in which they showed their ability to plan and decorate show windows was staged by B. F. Kerr and Sons Co. Grandview won the contest with a beautifully decorated bedroom.

FRESHMAN DEBATES

Last week the Freshman A class debating team, consisting of Doris Peters, Mary Roth, and Robert Rooney, defeated the C class team, consisting of Esther Bowsher, Theodore Blackson, and Thomas White, on the question:—Resolved: That Rebecca would make a better wife for Ivanhoe than Rowena. The judges for the debate were Ewing Ross, Esther Drum, Paul Kirwin and Mildred Cameron—all being public speaking students.

Tuesday, May 15, the A team debated the B class representatives, who were Mildred Greenlee, Elizabeth Groom and Gladys Jones. Maynard Thomas was elected, but could not serve because of sickness. Again the A section was as decidedly victorious as before. The judges votes were unanimous. The judges were Mildred Cameron, Esther Drum and Paul Kirwin of the Public Speaking class. Doris Peters received choice of judges as best speaker.

Resolved: That the Newspapers are Agencies of Unrest and Immorality. Affirmative team winning faction.

The chosen teams of the sophomore B section debated the aforesaid question and the affirmative team, namely, Emil Ross, and Richard Nickerson, won the debate. The negative side of the question was very ably upheld by Oliver Weaver and Harold Davis.

Each debater had some qualities that were worth encouraging, but he star of the debaters was Emil Ross. Ross has the knack of a debater for he wastes no time in getting down to business, and reaching the kernel of the question. He has a clever and practical method of rebuttal, which is one of the first requisites of a debater.

The judges for this debate were Veronica Kuhns, Irma Rader and Marie Kellstadt.

Resolved: Inheritance Tax in U. S. Should be Abolished. Affirmative Team winner.

The affirmative team composed of Pauline Accord and John Heiskell debated the above question against Jeanne Crowe and Helen Palm, members of the negative side. The affrmative faction won the debate according to the decision given by the judges, Mabel Young, Herman Compton and Paul Kirwin.

The class, after having been assigned the debate, chose the speakers for each side and then each student gave his material to the debaters.

The speeches were well organized and just as well delivered. Each speech impressed the hearers as being well prepared and well analyzed.

HI-Y PICNIC

A Hi-Y picnic was held on Monday, May 14, at Dewey park. They went in tw cars loaded with boys and plenty of good food that boys like. Since the day was so warm many of the picknickers went in swimming. Later two baseball teams were organized from among those present, and some exciting games ensued. We are not sure just what time lunch was served but we bet 10 cents to a dime that it was the last thing on the program.

Late in the evening, the machines were again loaded and rolled into town at ? o'clock.

SOCIETY

PICKAWAY CHAPTER D. A. R. MEET WITH MRS. SHANER

The Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held their regular meeting May 15th at 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. L. T. Shaner, with Mrs. Bertha Teegardin and the Misses Anna and Estelle Grimes, assistant hostesses.

The vice-regent, Mrs. Orion King, led the Flag Salute and presided during the meeting. Responses to the roll call were clippings from the New York Sun, Washington Post and other leading newspapers, in defense of the D. A. R. against the so-called "black list." Under the date of April 25th, 1928, the New York Sun published an editorial, part of which is here quoted.

"In the National Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Washington last week, the question whether the administration of that important and dignified society should be sustained in closing the doors of its scattered chapters to certain advocates of doctrines opposed to its principles was answered in the affirmative by a vote of about 2,000 to 14. This may be described as one incident of a movement to impose on members of the governing body of a private society, an obligation to open the doors of its meeting places to every vocal rambler who chances to be in the neighborhood, no matter how antagonistic to the purposes of the society he may be."

Mrs. Asa C. Messenger, of Xenia, Ohio State Chairman of National Defense, gave a splendid address, telling of the enemy within our gates who would overthrow this government of ours, were it possible to do so. Mrs. William Magee Wilson, also of Xenia, past state regent of Ohio, in a very clever manner told of the proceedings of the National Congress in Washington, from which she has just returned home.

Delightful refreshments were served by the hostesses during the social time. The next meeting will be the annual picnic, the last meeting of the year, and will be held Tuesday, June 19th, at the home of Mrs. Ned Bell of Jackson township.

Gray, of Atlanta, closing with prayer by Mrs. Gray.

The evening session opened with the song "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" and short devotional service conducted by Mrs. Price followed by a short playlet—"Prohibition and Law Enforcement" with the following members taking part; Mesdames Bessie M. Long, Nellie Stofer, Katie Denman and Dora Warner.

Following the playlet the Gold Medal contest was in charge of Mrs. Gussman. The first number was "College Oil Cans" by Mrs. Fdna Newhouse, of Williamsport; No. 2—Mrs. Catherine Reber, of Walnut-twp., reading "Blasted." No. 3—"Her Mother's Song" Mrs. Maggie Morris, of Columbus; Song by four little girls "Wind the White Ribbon Around the World; No. 4—"The Men of the Nation" Mrs. Julia Weaver; No. 5—"Chiming of the New Year's Bells," Mrs. Wanda Wardell, of Williamsport; No. 6— "The Saloonkeeper and the little White Shoes," Mrs. Laura Drake.

The judges were Mr. Alva White Miss Flora Dunlap and Mrs. D. V. Courtright decided that Mrs. Catherine Reber won the gold medal.

MARRIAGE TAKES PLACE AT PRESBYTERIAN MANSE

Miss Anna Baucher of Circleville and Mr. Arthur Adams of Indianapolis, were united in marriage at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the manse on E. Mound-st., by the Rev. E. S. Toensmeier of the Presbyterian church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baucher of 836 S. Scioto-st. She is a graduate of Circleville high school in the class of 1923. For the past five years she has been employed at Witich's confectionery on W. Main-st., where she has made many friends.

TIMELY LECTURE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

At this time when Katherine Mayo's book "Mother India" is being so much discussed everywhere, the illustrated lecture on India at the Presbyterian church Sunday night will make a special appeal. The time is 7:30 o'clock.

There are in India 3000 castes, none of whom may intermarry. There are more gods than people. There are 2,500,000 wives under 10 years of age and 9,000,000 under 15 years of age.

While not complete, as no one set of views can be complete, the lecture will give an opportunity to learn much of this great land, India.
